Stone, stucco, and heavy timbers are all elements of the first homes to tame the wild of the Deschutes River Valley. The Whitetail Lodge by MossCreek expresses this pioneer spirit. The exterior features the materials of the rugged landscape, while the interior presents a more refined timber frame sanctuary.

The Whitetail is the perfect home for one level living. A master suite for a master, and a second bedroom and bath are located in detached guest quarters for the ultimate in relaxed living. The Great Room features a massive two story timber frame interior. Other timber frames throughout the house complete the natural theme.
